GETTING HERE

DEADWOOD AND THE BLACK HILLS OFFER A VARIETY OF TRANSPORTATION CHOICES.

BY CAR – Interstate 90, which runs from Boston to Seattle, skirts the edge of the Black Hills – just 9 miles from downtown Deadwood. U.S. Highway 85 comes up from Denver and continues on into North Dakota.

BY AIR – Nearby Rapid City Regional Airport has direct airline flights from Denver, Minneapolis, Chicago, Dallas, Houston, Salt Lake City, Las Vegas and Phoenix. Airlines are American Airlines, Delta, United, and Allegiant Air.

BY MOTORCYCLE – Those scenic Black Hills highways and byways are a magnet for motorcyclists. In fact, each August some 500,000 descend on the Black Hills for the Sturgis Motorcycle Rally.

BY BUS – A number of motor coach companies offer transportation to the Black Hills. Some have packages that let your group fly into Rapid City, then tour by bus through the Black Hills to Yellowstone, and then board planes in Billings for the trip home.

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE

The Black Hills are an unsurpassed travel destination because the region's outdoor activities are as diverse as the people who visit here. Name your passion, and you'll likely find avid fans who share your interests in the Black Hills. No matter what you do, Deadwood is close to the action.

SUMMER

Bicyclists enjoy the 109-mile Mickelson Trail that snakes through the most scenic sections of the Black Hills. Hikers, backpackers and horseback riders ply the 100-mile Centennial Trail which runs from Bear Butte State Park to Wind Cave National Park. In fact, the Black Hills National Forest has some 450 miles of hiking trails that offer a wide range of challenges. Rock climbing? People come from all over the world to scale the Needles or Devil's Tower.

Off-highway vehicle riders have 550 miles of designated in the Black Hills National Forest. Many are connected by nearly 500 miles of all-vehicle-access roads, which together provide abundant opportunities for OHV outings. Road bikers, some 500,000 of them, come to the Sturgis Motorcycle Rally each August.

How about golf? The Black Hills are home to 16 public and private golf courses, including the new Elkhorn Ridge Golf Club eight miles from Deadwood. In addition, there are geo caching opportunities, ghost towns to explore and historic cemeteries that tell the story of the Black Hills past.

If your idea of the great outdoors is more sedate, there are half a dozen wineries and tasting rooms in the Black Hills. Sit back, sip a cool glass and enjoy the scenery. Deadwood has two wineries, and nearby Hill City has four.

WINTER

As the weather turns cold and snow starts falling, the outdoor fun actually heats up. Skiers, snowmobilers, cross-country skiers and snowshoe enthusiasts come to the Northern Black Hills seeking deep powder and exciting slopes. Mystic Miner and Terry Peak ski areas are half an hour from Deadwood.

Terry Peak Ski Area has 450 acres of ski terrain and 1,000 feet of vertical drop, making it the biggest ski area in the heartland. Five chairlifts, including three high-speed quads, serve the facility with 20 miles of trails. Mystic Miner Ski Resort at Deer Mountain offers a diverse ski terrain that includes groomed trails, powder runs, glade runs and uncrowded, wide-open slopes. Its Zero Gravity tube park is a popular family attraction.

More than 350 miles of snowmobile trails are marked, mapped and groomed every winter by the state of South Dakota. Some of those trails actually pass right through Deadwood. Area resorts offer snowmobile rentals. You can also rent cross-country skis, and the Mickelson Trail office has snowshoes that people can check out free of charge.

HOTEL & VENUE LOCATIONS

DISCOVER THE LURE OF DEADWOOD

With its larger-than-life history of gold and discovery, Deadwood is still a town wild at heart. See how the West was really won when you play in one of our 80 gaming halls, where you'll find 24/7 tables and slots, $1,000 bet limits and limitless fun.

And with more than 1,500 guest rooms and meeting spaces that range from intimate settings ideal for executive retreats to full-scale convention facilities with catering and state-of-art presentation equipment, Deadwood gives convention and meeting planners and group tour operators an alternative to the ordinary.

FRANKLIN HOTEL

The Franklin Hotel is located in the heart of downtown Deadwood. The Franklin's place in Deadwood's rich history has been secured since it was built in 1903. It has been graced with guests such as Presidents Taft and Teddy Roosevelt, actors John Wayne, Kevin Costner and other notables such as the Kennedys, Mary Hart and Tom Brokaw. It's within walking distance to museums, shopping, the post office and all other local services. Very recently the lobby underwent serious renovations to restore the classic luxury and timeless sophistication the Franklin has been providing for over 100 years.

Just across the street the Silverado has always been known for its winning ways, being home to the Great Car Giveaway which awards two sparkling sedans each and every month – more cars than all of our competitors combined. We always award our guests with complimentary refreshments, delightful hors d'oeuvres and a friendly smile. It's just our way of saying, "Thanks for stopping in!"

MARTIN & MASON

Located in the beautiful railroad area of the historic Deadwood district, the Martin & Mason Hotel and the adjoining Iron Horse Inn have long been a haven for weary travelers. Directly across the street from the Adams Museum and the historic railroad depot, the Martin & Mason's 1898 ballroom and meeting rooms are within walking distance to everything the historic area has to offer.

Constructed in 1893, the hotel began a thirteen year renovation in 1995. It's chiseled stone façade makes it one of Deadwood's most distinctive historic buildings. Victorian antiques and lighting offer guests a chance to truly feel America's turn of the century era. Each of the eight hotel rooms are decorated individually, some with striking views of Mount Moriah, the historic Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley Railroad and the Adams Museum. Weddings, meetings, receptions and conferences can be catered in house. The nineteen economical hotel rooms of the adjoining Iron Horse Inn offer a reasonable alternative to larger groups, making a total of twenty-seven rooms available. Other downtown hotels are steps away.

The Lee Street Station Diner on the first floor consistently provides Deadwood guests with the most popular meals in the historic downtown area. Open 24 hours, the Wooden Nickel Casino offers over 80 liberal slots for guests and is a popular local establishment.

HISTORIC BULLOCK HOTEL

Step back in time and walk through the very same corridors, rooms and hallways that Deadwood's first Sheriff, Seth Bullock, walked more than 100 years ago. Bullock and his business partner, Sol Star, built the stone-facade hotel in 1894-96 from a converted warehouse. Bullock was also a major builder and booster for Deadwood as it grew from a mining camp to prosperous city.

Treat yourself to 19th century history and elegance combined with 21st century amenities. Bully's, the hotel's bar and restaurant, is named for Bullock's friend, Teddy Roosevelt. This intimate restaurant features a beautiful large fireplace that is typical of the 1895 period and decorated with "potter's tiles" and carved woodwork. Emerald green walls play host to several period artwork pieces. The well-appointed first-floor casino features slot machines ranging from penny slots to $5 machines.

The Bullock has been fully restored from top to bottom, appointed with the same Victorian touches that greeted well-heeled visitors in Bullock's day. Lodging accommodations include the Luxury Jacuzzi Suites with king beds overlooking Deadwood's Main Street, as well as classic king, queen or full rooms and two-queen rooms. Although Seth Bullock has been dead since 1919, you might get a chance to say hello. A number of well-documented sightings have been reported of Bullock's ghost walking the halls of the hotel. But not to worry – he's very friendly.

AMENITIES

- Complimentary wireless internet access
- Hairdryers in every room
- Two complimentary bottles of water in every room

CEDAR WOOD INN

Immaculate landscaping, uniquely decorated lodging rooms and well-maintained facilities make the Cedar Wood Inn one of the most popular small motels in Deadwood. It's next door to a park, a short walk from a restaurant and just six blocks from Deadwood's Historic Main Street. The Deadwood Trolley stops right at the Cedar Wood's front sidewalk, making it even easier to get around town.

The outside of the motel is clad in cedar shakes and native stone. Custom wrought iron railings and fencing coupled with beautiful landscaping gives this property a manicured feel that the second-generation owners work hard to maintain. Rooms are very clean, and owners encourage room inspections before check-in.

DEADWOOD DICK'S HOTEL & SUITES

Located in the Historic W.E. Adams buildings on Sherman Street, this impressive four-story building has been hosting visitors to Deadwood since 1989, the year gaming became legal. Deadwood Dicks was built in the late 1800s, this historic landmark building was the original site of the W.E. Adams grocery warehouse. Owners Dave and Mary Larson were early supporters of limited stakes gaming and members of the U-bet Committee. Today, Deadwood Dick's is one of the most eclectic properties in Deadwood being part restaurant, part gaming hall and part antique emporium, plus it's a hotel.

Rooms and suites feature a variety of accommodations, all decorated with an eye toward Deadwood's Victorian past. Many of the suites feature huge windows facing downtown Deadwood, offering one of the best views of downtown Deadwood this side of Mount Moriah. Deadwood Dick's has off-street parking for guests and easy elevator access to the suites and rooms. The European style Otis elevator with gated doors, almost the original, takes you to the upper floors.

"The Deadwood Loading Dock," at Deadwood Dicks serves up beer, wine, soft drinks and smoothies in the café and sells fresh roasted coffee beans. There is also gambling and an antique mall in the hotel.

DEADWOOD ALIVE/GUNSLINGERS/ TRIAL OF JACK MCCALL

Main Street, Deadwood

Street theater mixes with history all summer long in Deadwood. The Deadwood Alive Gunslingers – gun-toting actors – recreate the events of Deadwood’s most famous time in 1876 when Wild Bill Hickok was murdered, and his killer Jack McCall was captured on the street and put on trial. The capture occurs at 7:30 p.m. on Main Street in front of the Saloon 10, and the trial starts at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Building down the street, next to the Silverado Gaming Establishment. But the actors stay busy all afternoon. The shooting of Wild Bill is inside the Saloon 10 four times a day. The Gunslinger shootouts are three times a day at various locations on Deadwood Main Street.

- Memorial Day to mid September
- Special performances available upon request for large groups

DEVILS TOWER NATIONAL MONUMENT

77 miles west of Deadwood, via Interstate 90 and,
U.S. Highway 14 and Wyo. Highway 24

This natural wonder was created millions of years ago when a spike of molten rock pushed through a weak spot in the Earth’s crust, then cooled. When the surrounding countryside eroded away, it left this 1,200-foot monolith standing above the Belle Fourche River Valley. The site is sacred to Native American tribes, and it was the United State’s first national monument. It was popularized in the 1977 film, “Close Encounters of the Third Kind.”

HISTORIC ADAMS HOUSE

22 Van Buren Street, Deadwood

Built in 1892, this impressive Victorian mansion offers a glimpse into the lives of well-to-do merchants in Deadwood’s early days. Businessman W.E. Adams bought the home in 1920 and lived there until his death. Adams’ second wife Mary closed up the house in 1936, two years after W.E.’s death, leaving the contents and furnishings intact. Now owned by the city of Deadwood, the house has been restored and is open to the public. The Historic Adams House includes the Mary Adams Orientation Center with wheelchair accessible bathrooms, orientation exhibition and gift shop.

- Summer hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily with tours at the top of the hour. Fall, winter and spring hours are generally Monday to Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. (Call to confirm.)

MOUNT MORIAH CEMETERY

10 Mt Moriah Drive, Deadwood

Perched on a hilltop overlooking Deadwood, Mount Moriah Cemetery is the final resting place of Wild Bill Hickok, Calamity Jane, Seth Bullock and a host of lesser-known Deadwood denizens who met timely and untimely ends in Deadwood Gulch. The cemetery reflects the history of Deadwood itself, with a Chinese section, children's section and a number of interpretive signs to help tell the story. There's also a Visitor Center and maps to guide your visit.

- During summer, the cemetery and Visitor Center are open seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

OLD STYLE SALOON NO. 10

657 Main Street, Deadwood

The Old Style Saloon No. 10 is a living museum – maybe the only one in the world with a full bar – where you can view historical Western and mining camp artifacts spanning more than 100 years. Kids are welcome until 8:30 p.m. After dark they turn on the fun for adults with live music, cold drinks, casino games and an atmosphere that recalls Deadwood’s early days. For a quieter respite, head upstairs to the Deadwood Social Club restaurant and its rooftop patio. By the way, this is the bar – but not the location – where Wild Bill Hickok was murdered in 1876. Originally named Nuttal & Mann’s Saloon 10, the bar was down the street. You can still see Wild Bill’s “death chair” above the front door.

SPEARFISH CANYON

West of Deadwood via U.S. Highway 385 to Lead, or via Interstate 90 to Spearfish

The breathtaking limestone walls soar above the wooded canyon floor on this scenic 20-mile drive between Spearfish and Cheyenne Crossing. Along the way, you can see Bridal Veil Falls, Roughlock Falls and Spearfish Falls. A number of hiking trails take you away from the road and into the cool forest. Halfway up the canyon, the Latchstring Inn and Spearfish Canyon Lodge offer a scenic break where Little Spearfish Creek feeds into Spearfish Creek. The view is especially breathtaking in the fall, when the aspen trees turn bright yellow.
