Historic Deadwood ENTERTAINING GUESTS SINCE 1876

No trip to Deadwood is ever ordinary. It's where Wild Bill was shot and Calamity Jane became a legend. Their luck ran out... but yours is just beginning!

The entire town is a registered National Historic Landmark, but there is much more to this mountain community. In recent years, several new resort properties have been built in Deadwood offering top amenities and deluxe suites. Guests can also enjoy fine dining, local attractions, outdoor recreation, live entertainment and proximity to world-famous regional attractions. Deadwood has award-winning museums, Mt. Moriah Cemetery where Wild Bill was laid to rest, incredible special events featuring free concerts on Main Street with national recording artists, walking trails, guided bus tours, unique shopping, ghost tours, saloons and let's not forget 24/7 gaming action!

While Deadwood has changed over the years, it has never forgotten its Wild West roots. Visitors enjoy daily historic re-enactments including the most famous events in Deadwood's history – the shooting of Wild Bill Hickok and the Trial of Jack McCall.

How did Deadwood save itself from the fate of so many other historic, Old West towns? In 1989 South Dakota voters were asked to approve limited stakes gaming with a promise that it would be used to generate funds for the National Historic Landmark. Deadwood delivered. To date, over $250 million has been collected and used for promotion, infrastructure repair, the preservation and restoration of historic structures and to help fund the ongoing operation of historic non-profit attractions like museums and reenactors. State-wide more than $200 million additional funds supported historic preservation, state departments, the general fund, local municipalities, and school districts.

With its larger-than-life history of gold and discovery, Deadwood is still a town wild at heart. See how the West was really won – make sure Deadwood is on your travel bucket list.

We've been entertaining guests since 1876!
